Lurker	Thistledown
Matthulhu

A special thanks goes out to Nashomi the Silverwolf, Terarin of Shadowdale, Luke Wyngarde, and Ivar Nefarious, without whom there would be no Dor Un Avathar.

Finally, it is important to specifically acknowledge the tireless work of Raion no Yoto and Elder Vermillion, they were instrumental in not only helping with the project, but also in making sure it was done right. They are responsible for the lion's share of editing and revision that it took to bring this book to life. If you enjoy it, thank them. If you hate it blame the Editor in Chief: Medryn Harlequin.

INTRODUCTION

It has been eight years since Sir Lucas Wyngarde and I founded the Amtgard Seven group. In that time Amtgard has become a completely different game, not only in the sense that we have a completely different rules set, but also in how we revise, clarify and play by those rules. Amt7 has re-tasked itself several times over the years, shifting focus first to revising the Dor un Avathar, and then producing unofficial expansions offering options and ideas for those seeking to expand their Amtgard horizons. The DUA remains one of our greatest successes, but sadly, it has not kept up with the rules updates and other changes Amtgard has seen since it was officially adopted by the Circle of Monarchs.

Change is always hard, but it is also always constant. Those things that don't adapt die, or, in a less figurative sense, are simply discarded or ignored as useless. It was with this in mind that I enlisted Amt7 to revise, and ultimately re-envision, the Dor. We started from the principle that monsters were simply not used as often as we would like them to be. The reasons for this are legion, but we felt the biggest obstacles were complicated rules, unbalanced monsters, and a general sense that monsters were for "Quests" not for regular park days and battlegames. Quests are fun, and certainly a part of Amtgard where Monsters play a large role. But quests are rare, usually occurring once or twice a reign. Limiting Monsters to such scenarios greatly limits players' exposure to them, and certainly inhibits the ability to gain credits and levels.

Even more than that, we realized that good Questmasters don't need a book detailing "Official" Monsters. Questmasters tweak, modify, and create Monsters that fit the scenario they are writing. They adapt to their players, and have the power to change whatever they see fit to make their one time "quest" scenario work. These things can be adapted on the fly if necessary, even mid game, by the Questmaster. Players on the other hand, those who just want to show up to the park and play on a normal game day, can't rebalance the monster they are playing, and if a Reeve has to do so frequently people begin to hate seeing the Monster class on the field.

To meet this need, we have shifted the Dor from being about Amtgard's Monsters, to be about Monsters for everyday Amtgard. This book is designed for players, to be used week in and week out. Its official nature means that players should have access to these standard Monsters regularly, and because the monsters have been designed with that in mind, we have changed the requirement that must be met before playing a monster. Practically what that means is that we have simplified the mechanics behind playing a monster and balancing a monster on a team. We have also replaced Q:M ratios with more useful "Power Ratings" and used those ratings in determining which monsters may be played in regular battlegames to make sure that Monsters don't completely unbalance a game. The other effect that I am sure most folks will notice and many may not like is that we have pared this book down. There are still a decent chunk of iconic big bad Monsters like Dragons and Death Knights, but for the most part Monsters that belong in Quests aren't here. The bulk of the Monsters in this book are low ratio Monsters that will be available in most regular battlegames. We have plans to release a more detailed, more extensive "Questmaster's Guide" that will have lots of quest monsters and resources for folks who like building quests, but we felt that to really make Monsters viable for every week play we needed to focus on those monsters that players could play without special scenarios, complicated rules or completely unbalancing a regular game. It is the fruit of that work that you hold in your hand, I believe we have succeeded. We hope you like it.

SIR MEDRYN HARLEQUIN

Editor in Chief

GENERAL MONSTER RULES

1. Monsters are generally treated as classes, not races. Monsters may not stack a Class on top of a Monster race unless the Monster has the Player Class Trait or this is otherwise specified as allowed. (For example: You may not play a 6th level Lizardman Monk, but Vampire has class abilities.)
2. Monsters may not unbalance a battlegame and must show a willingness to play in character.
3. Certain Traits and Abilities may be removed at the Reeve's option for regular battlegame play. If an Ability is listed with this distinction, be sure to clear it with the Reeve before the game begins.
4. The rulebook supersedes all Monster supplements and handbooks in case of disputes.
5. All rulebook spells affect Monsters in the same way they would a player class, unless specified otherwise. This is usually specified using the Altered Effect Vulnerability.
6. Creatures that require special circumstances to "take a death" may never be allowed to voluntarily take a death to speed their down time or regain per life abilities.
7. Monsters may not use Relics except in Quests or other special scenarios.
8. Monsters generally may not wear enchantments. This limitation does not apply to Humanoid and Fey Monsters or any Monster with Attuned, Spell Mastery or another listed exception.

MONSTER FORMAT

Monsters detailed in this volume follow a distinctive format, each having similar entries, as detailed below.

DESCRIPTION: This includes physical descriptions, and role playing tips.

GARB: All monsters are required to carry a copy of the monster entry in addition to any listed Garb requirements, and the person playing a monster should endeavor to look as much like it as possible. The Reeve can always disallow someone from playing a monster if he feels these criteria are not met. Entries listed here as Suggested are optional, including gender suggestions, which merely reflect legendary or mythological forms of the creature. All facets of Amtgard are open to anyone who wishes to play the part.

REQUIREMENTS: Lists any in game restrictions on who may play the Monster, such as Knights only.

TYPE: There are a number of Monster types, each with special qualities, including certain Immunities, Vulnerabilities, and other special rules. Monsters may have several types, and the effects are cumulative unless indicated otherwise in the specific Monster entry.

Animation: An animation is a monster generally composed or constructed of otherwise nonliving materials, and given some semblance of life through mystical means or other process.

- Immunity (Control, Death, Subdual, Disease, Poison)
- Altered Effect (Dispel Magic: Banish)
- Altered Effect (Anti Magic: Petrify) These Monsters will not willingly enter Anti-magic zones. If they are forced to enter one they are affected as by Petrify which does not end until they are removed from the zone.

Beast: Non humanoid creatures, most often animals with more than two legs.

- Weapons considered Natural

Botanical: These monsters are composed of Plant or Fungal material

- Immunity (Control, Death, Subdual)

Extra-Planar: These Monsters hail from another dimension or plane of existence and include Elementals, Demons, and Angels.

- Immunity (Death, Poison)

Fey: The Fairy folk of legend and myth.

- Immunity (Control) except Bardic Charm
- Fey Monsters may bear Enchantments according to the Rules of Play, unless otherwise noted

Humanoid: Monsters in this category generally have two arms, two legs, and walk upright.

- Humanoid Monsters may bear Enchantments according to the Rules of Play, unless otherwise noted.
- Note: Although not considered monsters, players of any standard class are considered Humanoid for the purpose of game effects.

Legendary: These monsters are very powerful.

- All abilities are (Ex)
- Gain Power Word
- Natural weapons count as magical for the purposes of damaging monsters who are only affected by magic weapons.
- Note: Spells gained via Magic Caster are still magical in nature.

Multi-Player: These Monsters are played by multiple players.

- They have a number of special rules, detailed in the Monster's description.

Undead: These are the walking dead and the restless spirits of those past.

- Immunity (Death, Control, Poison, Disease)

POWER RANKING (PR): This is a general indicator of how powerful the monster is. When designing quests or battlegames with monsters, this number is used to balance the teams and challenges presented. Generally Monsters with a PR of 3 or less may be played in any battle game, subject to the normal discretion exercised by game designers. There can be any number of PR 1 Monsters on a team. There can be only one PR2 Monster per five players on a team, and only one PR 3 Monster per ten players on a team, regardless of the specific Monster being played. For example a team of 10 players could have any one PR 3 Monster, but not another PR 3 Monster even if the player was playing a different Monster than the first player. These ratios are similar to those for bow users and the magic classes in the Rules of Play. Reeves and game organizers are encouraged to balance the monsters on teams, as they would Magic classes and bows, such as by ensuring that Monsters are split evenly between teams.

ARMOR: Indicates the number of points and types of Armor the monster has. Worn Armor points require rated, approved armor constructed using the guidelines in the Rules of Play.

SHIELDS: The largest shield the monster may use. A Monster may always choose to use a shield smaller than the type listed. If no shield types are listed, the Monster may not use any shields.

WEAPONS: Lists the specific categories of weapons the monster may use. If a weapon category is listed as Single, the monster may only wield one of that weapon type at a time, though the monster may carry more.

IMMUNITIES: Lists any effect types to which the monster enjoys complete resistance. Note that some Abilities and Traits (such as Large, Tough, and Incorporeal) grant very specific Immunities. These Immunities will not be listed here, but are treated the same in all ways as any other Immunity.

NATURAL LIVES: The monsters has lives equal to this value, unless altered for a specific quest or scenario. Natural Lives gained through levels are added to this total.

ABILITIES AND TRAITS: A list of the various Abilities and Traits the monster has access to, regardless of Level.

VULNERABILITIES: A list of limitations, restrictions, and weaknesses the creature has. Some of these may have special notes denoting altered function. This entry may be omitted if the creature has no significant vulnerabilities.

LEVELS: If the creature is capable of learning from experience, or becomes more powerful with age, it will gain abilities and traits based on Level. Usually, this is the Player's Monster Class Level, but may be altered for certain quests or scenarios. Base Abilities and Traits and those gained at lower levels are not lost as level increases unless noted.

SPECIAL NOTES: A section included only if the monster has any unusual properties or rules that can affect game play or inclusion in battlegames, quests, or scenarios.

PLAYING A MONSTER

Monster is a special class similar to the standard classes presented in the Rules of Play. Like other fighting classes, Monster has six levels of experience and follows the same rules for advancement. However, only 2 credits may be earned in Monster per month. Note: Sometimes a player becomes a monster after having started a game as a regular class. Since this player has now played a monster, he may be deemed eligible for a monster credit. It is up to the Prime Minister and Monarch to decide whether to allow such players to change their class credits for the day to Monster. This does not allow a player to exceed the limit of 2 Monster credits per month.

All monsters are considered the same class, so as a player advances in Monster, his Monster level is increased for all Monsters. For example, a player who has earned 2nd level in Monster may play a second level Pegasus, Goblin, or Dragon, as well as monsters listed without Levels.

There are three ways to play a monster, as a Quest Monster, a Player Monster, or as a Converted Monster and each has varying requirements and rules.

QUEST MONSTERS

When a quest or special scenario is organized, the Questmaster, Monarch, or Reeve for the scenario will select players to play Monsters. Quest scenarios often have special rules laid out by the quest designer, and the Monsters used are no different. Quest Monsters used in these games are generally not part of a player team and serve as encounters, challenges, or plot points in the quest. The quest designer may include any monster and may assign those monsters' levels as needed as well as modifying or creating monsters as necessary for the specific scenario. While all of the Monsters in this book may be used in quests, this book is designed primarily for use in regular battlegames rather than special scenarios. Questmasters should feel free to use this book and other resources in designing their games, but should not feel limited by anything but their own imagination and game requirements.

PLAYER MONSTERS

In addition to having monsters placed in a game by the game designer, players may play the Monster class in regular battlegames as they would any other class, subject to normal limitations placed by the person running the game. Just as a game designer or reeve may disallow magic in a certain battle game, they may disallow monsters. If you want to play a monster in a battlegame always clear it with the person running the game first. When playing a Monster as a regular class, the Player's level in the Monster Class determines his Monster level, and he uses the Monster's Natural Lives as listed. Generally, players may play any monster with a Power Rating of 3 or less in normal battlegames, subject to the per team limitations described in the Power Rating section above.

CONVERTED MONSTERS

Certain Monsters have the power to convert players into more monsters, often copies of that initial monster, using Traits or Abilities like Create Minion and Conversion. These monsters are typically used in special scenarios, and these abilities should never be used in regular games. While specific rules for these abilities are found in the abilities section, a few general guidelines for players turned forcibly into Monsters are:

1. Newly created monsters generated from these abilities are considered part of the initial monster's team and are considered under the control of that monster. They do not retain free will and obey commands given by the creating monster to the best of their ability.
2. Players play out a single life or the remainder of their lives as a first level Monster as indicated in the description of the specific ability. These lives count against the number of lives the Player has as the class he began the game as. If the player has any of their initial lives remaining after playing one of these Monsters (according to the rules of that ability), or suffers Reversion (as listed for the new Monster), he may return to the game on his original team as his original class.
3. If a player had the Beneficent trait, the player loses it when he turns into Monster, even if the description of the newly created Monster specifies that Abilities and Traits from the Player Class are retained.
4. Monsters created with these abilities do not retain the Conversion or Create Minion ability, unless specifically noted that they are retained in the Monster's description.

TYPES

For the purpose of Abilities, Immunities, and Vulnerabilities, game effects fall in to the following types. Types listed without commas separating them function together. For example, a monster with Immunity (Flame, Death) is immune to both Flame and Death effects, whereas a Monster with Susceptibility (Wooden Piercing) is vulnerable to hits from weapons that are both Wooden and Piercing, not weapons that are only one or the other.

ARMOR TYPES

Armor of more than one type (e.g. Natural Invulnerable) follows the rules for all of its types.

INVULNERABLE: Each section (hit location) of this armor is treated as separate areas of Invulnerability. Invulnerable Armor may be mended unless noted. Magic Casters must specify which hit location on a player is targeted with a Spell. If the caster fails to specify, or the Spell is an area or mass effect like Doomsday, the target chooses the location struck. See the Rules of Play for details.

INVULNERABILITY: A skintight layer of overall (non-sectional) protection that negates one hit to a person. May not be mended (or Healed) unless noted. See the Rules of Play for details.

NATURAL: Natural Armor functions as normal armor except that it may not itself be the target of spells or effects – with the exception of Heal, which will repair a single point of natural armor in a single location, even if the armor is invulnerable or invulnerability.

WORN: This armor must be an actual piece of armor worn on the body, and follows the armor rules in the Rules of Play. A Monster's Worn armor is layered above (ie struck before) any other listed Armor. Immunities and protections do not extend to any Worn armor. As described in the Rules of Play, multiple layers of Worn Armor of any sort in the same location are averaged, whereas other types of armor are added, even if of the same type. (For example, Natural Armor from Berserk is added to Natural Armor granted for a specific monster class and to any Worn Armor, but varying Worn armors in the same spot are averaged together.)

WEAPON TYPES

BLADED: Any weapon listed as Piercing or Slashing is also Bladed. Any weapon listed as one of these three in the Rules of Play or in a Monster entry is Bladed.

BLUDGEONING: Indicates a weapon that is listed as Bludgeoning, either in the Rules of Play or in the Monster entry. According to the Rules of Play, Staves, Hinged Weapons, and Rocks are always Bludgeoning, and Polearms may never be Bludgeoning. A Weapon falling into a Category that may be Bludgeoning (Dagger, Short, Long, Reach) should generally be unambiguous as to its designation or be declared to Reeves as Bludgeoning prior to the start of any game with Monsters, since this could affect Monster Immunities or Vulnerabilities. Weapons not so declared should be considered Bladed.

HOLY: These weapons are Red, Magic, Indestructible, and may be used to break shields even if they are under the effects of Improve Shield, Imbue Shield, or Harden. Holy shields are indestructible.

MAGIC: Any weapon carrying an offensive enchantment other than Stun Weapon, Relics, and any weapon otherwise designated as magical. Magical effects of these weapons are stopped by Immunity (Magic) and Protection from Magic, but the weapons still damage armor, wound, or kill, as appropriate. For example a Monster with Immunity (Magic) hit in the leg by an Imbued Weapon would be wounded by the weapon, but not killed.

NATURAL: Weapons that are considered a physical part of a monster. Used to simulate claws, horns, and so on. They cannot be separately Enchanted nor targeted with Magic (Pyrotechnics, Warp Wood, Heat Weapon) or Abilities. Effects that destroy everything they touch (Fireball, Lightning Bolt, Sphere of Annihilation) that strike a Natural weapon are treated as having hit the creature in the arm. Touch effects may be extended through Natural weapons (both ways) if declared within one second after the weapon is touched or touches the intended victim. A player using a touch effect on a Monster's Natural Weapon is only damaged, wounded, or killed if contact was made as a result of a melee attack made by the monster (such as an Assassin blocking a strike with his hand and declaring Touch of Death upon contact). Immunities and protections of a monster extend to any Natural weapons.

PIERCING: Any weapons specifically listed as Piercing and any Thrusting Hits from a Bladed weapon. All Projectiles except Rocks are Piercing.

RED: Indicates a weapon that will do 2 points of damage to armor and that destroys a shield in three hits, but only when Swung. The melee weapons of Strong monsters are Red.

SIEGE: An instant kill weapon. These weapons will kill any person or destroy any object they strike regardless of armor. Is considered engulfing. Counts as one hit against invulnerability and stops Fight After Death. The melee weapons of Mighty Monsters are Siege weapons.

SLASHING: Any weapon listed as Slashing, and any Swinging hits from a Bladed Weapon.

SWUNG/SWINGING: Indicates a weapon that may only be swung, dealing damage, wounds, or kills using the legal striking edge, rather than any legal tips or ends..

THRUST/THRUSTING: Indicates a weapon that may only be used to stab, jab, or thrust, dealing damage, wounds, or kills using any legal tips or ends, rather than striking edges.

MATERIAL TYPES

METAL: Simulates something made of any metal or any metallic effect or quality. Any Weapon Categories not described as Wooden or Stone are considered Metal.

STONE: Simulates anything made of rock, stone, mud, sand, earth, or dirt. Rocks (projectile weapons) are considered Stone WOODEN: Simulates anything made of wood. Includes unimproved Shields, Arrows (and Bolts) and any Weapon Category described as Wooden.

INDESTRUCTIBLE: Items of this type may not be destroyed by any means. Ever.

EFFECT TYPES

COLD: Simulates any snow, ice, cold or freezing effect or quality. The Spell Iceball is considered Cold.

CONTROL: Magic and abilities from the Control School.

DEATH: Magic and abilities from the Death School and the effects of a Death Field

DISEASE: Any magic or ability related to disease.

FLAME: Magic and abilities from the Flame School, and effects of non magical flame such as Lava etc.

LIGHTNING: Simulates any electrical, lightning, or shocking effect or quality. The spells Lightning Bolt and Call Lightning are considered Lightning.

MAGIC: Effects from any magic, magical ability, or any magic weapon.

Poison: Any ability or magic related to toxic substances including stench.

PROTECTION: Magic and abilities from the Protection School

SORCERY: Magic and abilities from the Sorcery School

SPiRiT: Magic and abilities from the Spirit School

SUBDUAL: Magic and abilities from the Subdual School

TERRAIN TYPES AND EFFECTS

Terrain types refer to either actual terrain on the field (such as trees, large rocks, shadows etc.) or areas marked off by reeves in some way and designated a specific terrain type. Some terrain types have specific effects on those who enter them, others are designated solely for the purpose of monster abilities (such as a creature that can only use Blend if near forest terrain).

ANTI-MAGIC ZONE: All forms of magical energy cease to function within this zone, denoted by yellow ribbon placed around the area. Enchantments on players that enter this area are instantly dispelled. Spells and magical abilities may not be cast and Relics do not work while within the boundaries of an Anti-Magic Zone. These areas may not be dispelled, but are otherwise like the spell of the same name.

CARNIVOROUS SWARM: Something small and annoying is eating your flesh if you enter this area, which should be marked with a red ribbon. Take a wound to any location (player's choice) after 5 seconds and die in a 10 count. Invulnerabilities are worn through all locations at the rate of one point per second after the initial 10 seconds. Normal armor is automatically bypassed.

DEATH FIELD: These zones of negative energy are denoted with black ribbon. Those who are not immune to Death magic die if they enter this area.

ETERNAL STENCH: Mark out areas of foul putrescence with green (and it better be really ugly green) ribbons. Only players who are immune to poison may enter, unless one hand covers the player's nose and mouth at all times. Players who remove their hand are immediately effected as per the Stun spell for a 30 count. This count does not begin until the player is removed from the area. Merely replacing a hand has no effect, the player must be removed from the area to continue.

FOREST: Any area that is no more than 20ft from an actual tree or is designated as forest terrain in a game.

HOLY GROUND: Not to be confused with the Healer magic Hallowed Ground. Areas marked with white ribbons represent land or places dedicated to Goodness and White Light. Paladins stationed within Holy Ground gain unlimited use of the Heal spell and all players are immune to the effects of Level Drain, Possession and Disease while within the boundaries of such an area.

GRAVEYARDS: Places where the dead are buried serve to enhance the Legions of the Undead. Areas marked with gray ribbon, or perhaps even foam tombstones or similar signs, can be assigned as a Graveyard. Any Undead dwelling in a Graveyard (or other place of interment such as a Mausoleum or Crypt) may add one additional life to their starting total. The exceptions to this are lifestealing Undead such as Vampires. These creatures do not gain an additional life, but they do gain one additional use of the Steal Life ability per game if it is used within the boundaries of the graveyard. (So, if they want an extra life, they have to go hunt for one!)

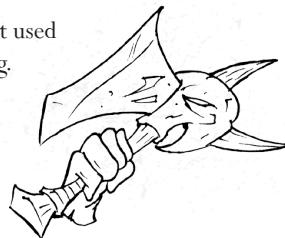

LAVA: Denoted with orange ribbon placed around the area. These are areas of open flame. Beings without protection from or immunity to Flame are instantly killed and all their equipment destroyed if they move through it. Beings protected from Flame and all equipment they are carrying are immune to this effect. Invulnerabilities are worn through all locations at the rate of one point per second. Normal armor is automatically bypassed.

SACRED GROVES: These wild places are holy ground to Fey Creatures and are marked with bright green ribbon. All Fey creatures (except Dark Elves) who enter a Sacred Grove may use the Camouflage ability once per life, so long as they remain within the grove.

SHADOW: Any area lying in actual shade, shadow, or darkness, as well as any area designated as Darkness or Shadow in a scenario.

WATER: Denoted with silver tarp on ground or silver tape placed around the area. All creatures entering this area must drop to their knees while moving through it, unless they are Aquatic, Large or flying. These rules can also be used to simulate wading through muck and mud, dense foliage, or any other condition that might force players to move slowly.

WEB: Represents an effect used to simulate webs or webbing. Includes the Webs ability.

ABILITIES AND TRAITS

Monsters often have special attributes and powers, much like the standard classes described in the Rules of Play.

Traits are attributes that function all of the time without activation being required. They include such things as extra lives and the ability to wear extra armor. Traits are denoted with a (T) and are always non-magical in nature.

Abilities are designated as either Magic, noted with an (M), or Extraordinary, designated with (Ex).

MAGIC (M) ABILITIES: These are magical abilities of the class that act in all ways as per magics described in the Rules of Play, they do not cost magic points, do not require a free hand, and are given a number of uses. These cannot be used in Anti-Magic areas. These require the person to stand still – as per casting magic to activate.

EXTRAORDINARY (Ex): In many cases these abilities are activated, act like, and are written just like magic. Unless otherwise noted, these require the player to stand still as per casting magic to be initially activated. If a School is listed, treat that ability as belonging to that magic School for the purpose of immunities and vulnerabilities. Otherwise, only invulnerability will protect from the ability (though some have immunity to poison and traps, and thus are unaffected by them). These are non-magical in nature and are never considered enchantments--even if based on an Enchantment's description. Extraordinary abilities may not be dispelled.

TRAITS AS ABILITIES: In some cases, an effect generally considered to be a Trait is limited to a certain number of uses for a specific Monster, such as a monster that may only be used as a Mount once per game. In such a case, that effect is considered an Ability for that monster, rather than a Trait. If no Incantation or other method of Activation is listed in the Monster entry or in the description below, the Ability must be announced out loud by name when activated. Generally a Trait-like Ability lasts until its immediate effect is resolved, unless otherwise noted. For example, a Monster using Aquatic as an Ability could activate it upon entering Water terrain, and would remain Aquatic until it exits the terrain.

ABILITY USAGE WILL BE IN ONE OF THE FOLLOWING FORMATS:

X/LIFE: The monster may use this ability the indicated (X) number of times each life.

X/GAME: The monster may use this ability the indicated (X) number of times during the course of the entire game or quest.

UNLIMITED: The monster may use the ability as much as it wants, but must successfully activate it each time, unlike a trait, which is always on.

X BOLTS/U: Reserved to magic ball effects, the monster may have the indicated number (x) of magic balls charged, active, or in effect at a time. Ball based abilities must follow all rules for magic balls in the Rules of Play, including rules for simulcasting and for maximum number of balls carried, even if they are not considered Magical (M).

UNLIMITED BOLTS: Also reserved to magic ball-based abilities, the monster may have any number of these carried, charged, active, or in effect, but is still subject to the rules for magic balls in terms of simulcasting (if charged at the same time, they must be thrown at the same time). Magic balls of this type carried by the monster are not counted toward the maximum amount of magic balls that may be carried.

TRAIT/ABILITY FORMAT KEY

M: Materials needed

I: Incantation and/or gestures

R: Range (if any)

E: Effect (This is the default if no format is listed)

L: Limitations or Restrictions

N: Notes

Note: Monsters may have abilities or traits that are listed in the Rules of Play. These follow the same rules as printed there unless otherwise noted. Likewise, a monster may have an ability that mimics the function of magic listed in the ROP. Again, these follow the rules in the Rules of Play except as noted, though they are not considered Magical unless listed as (M) in the individual monster's entry.

ABILITY AND TRAIT DESCRIPTIONS

ADAMANTINE

All weapons used are indestructible and immune to magic, except versus Sphere of Annihilation and relics. This may not be dispelled.

AERIAL MOUNT

The creature may carry a rider (per the Mount trait) while in flight. A rider on a flying Mount is treat as if he was flying so long as he remains mounted.

AERIAL SUPERIORITY

Allows a creature with Natural Flight to take flight while moving. They must remain stationary to land. Additionally, if throwing weapons or projectiles are available to the monster, they may be used while in flight.

AMORPHOUS

Monsters of this type do not have distinct parts to their bodies and are essentially a formless mass. As such these monsters have only a single hit location. Hits to any valid hit location are treated as if they had struck the player's torso. Amorphous monsters may not benefit from worn armor and have only one armor location for the purposes of natural armor. Amorphous Monsters are immune to wounding.

AQUATIC

Monster may move freely through water. This does not allow the monster to use magic or projectiles in the water, even if the monster has them available.

AQUATIC SUPERIORITY

This trait allows an Aquatic creature to use magic or projectiles in the Water, if such are available to the monster. Additionally, those with this trait are immune to most underwater terrain effects unless the Reeve decides otherwise.

AS ONE

Allows the Mount ability to effect a player at a range of 5 feet instead of touch. The player who is riding the creature must denote this by stating "riding" every 2 seconds if not touching the mount. If the rider goes more than 5 feet from the steed, he must remount normally. This ability also allows the rider to use both hands freely.

AURA OF WONDER

R: Sight.

E: When the flying creature is in flight, other creatures are so overwhelmed by the sight of this creature that they cannot attack it, even outside of the 20' range.

L: Any creature immune to Control is immune to this ability.

AVALANCHE

I: "Avalanche" x5 while stomping on ground with one foot

R: 20 ft. radius.

E: All players within range are affected as though hit with Entangle.

N: Creatures are immune to the effects of their own Avalanche, but not the Avalanche of others, unless otherwise immune.

BLEND

I: Enter area or touch item or ongoing effect designated by listed qualifier and repeat "(Qualifier) hide and protect me" x10 to blend, "(Qualifier) release me" x2 to end effect.

E: Creature is considered Out Of Game as long as it remains within the designated area or in contact with the designated item or ongoing effect.

N: Tracking may be used within 20 feet of a creature using Blend to dispel the effect.

BOON

I: "I grant thee a boon."

E: May grant a player an additional use of an ability they already possess.

L: Each player may have Boon cast on them only once each game.

BURNING BODY

Whenever this monster is struck, the weapon striking the creature is affected as per Heat Weapon. Weapons with Flameblade, Protection from Flame, or Harden and the Sword of Flame are immune to this ability.

CONVERSION

M: Copies of the converted Monster.

E: A victim slain by a creature with this ability rises as a nearly identical Monster on their next life and serves the killing Monster's team until slain. Once this life is lost, the player resumes the game on his original team as his original class with one fewer life remaining.

L: This ability should be removed for regular, non-Quest battlegames unless dictated otherwise by the Reeve. Only the original Monster possesses this power, unless the scenario dictates otherwise. (In other words, Converted Monsters do not convert other players.)

CORROSION

I: "I rust that (metal object)" x5.

R: 20 feet.

E: One metal item or metal weapon is considered unusable for a 100 count. Mend will repair corroded items. Normal armor constructed with metal parts (including rings and studs) is rendered useless in one location per use of this ability.

CREATE MINION (MONSTER TYPE)

M: Copies of the Monster Type. Dead Person.

I: "I make you my minion."

E: A victim slain by a creature with this ability (or one of his minions) IMMEDIATELY rises and plays his next life as the indicated Monster and serves the killing Monster's team until slain. Once this life is lost, the player resumes the game on his original team as his original class with one fewer life remaining.

L: The monster may only use Create Minion on players it has slain or those slain by its other Created Minions. This includes anyone who dies as a result of the monster's abilities. This ability should be removed for regular, non-Quest battlegames unless dictated otherwise by the Reeve.

DEATH CLOUD

I: "Death Cloud" x5.

R: 10 foot radius.

E: All players (except the caster) within radius instantly die.

N: This is a Death and Poison effect. Immunities and enchantments that provide protection against either type of effect will protect against this ability.

DEVOUR (EFFECT)

M: Dead Player.

I: "I consume your power and add it to my own" x3.

E: The opponent is treat as if affected by Sever Spirit and the monster gains the benefit of the listed effect.

DIVE ATTACK

I: While flying state "diving 1" through "diving 5."

E: While diving, you can attack and be attacked by non-flying creatures.

ENERGY HEAL

Abilities, attacks, and other effects utilizing the listed qualifiers affect the creature as though it were a Heal spell, removing one wound or restoring a single point of natural armor. If the qualifier listed describes an area, as in a terrain effect or fixed enchantment, the creature gains the benefits of Regeneration as long as it remains there. The creature is immune to any detrimental effects of the listed qualifier. The creature's own abilities, attacks, and other effects may not be used to gain the benefits of Energy Heal.

ENHANCED ARMOR

All normal armor worn is considered Invulnerable armor in the location it covers. This armor may be Mended normally.

EXTINGUISH

I: "Extinguish" x5.

R: 20 foot radius.

E: All Flame spells, enchantments, and magical abilities are dispelled. All Flame terrain effects, traits, and innate abilities are rendered inactive for a 100 count. The Sword of Flame is unaffected.

FLOOD

The Monster may convert a 25 foot radius area of the battlefield into water terrain for the duration of the game.

HARD TO KILL

Creature only dies once all limbs are taken, or by a killing torso shot. Wounded limbs are still useless, but fighting continues regardless of handicap.

HUNTER'S SNARE

I: "I draw thee to my web" x10.

R: Line of sight.

E: Target is pulled to the Spider's location. Upon reaching the Spider the snared player's entangle count immediately ends and he is affected by the Spider's Web at that location.

L: Spider must be touching his Web. May only be used on players currently under the effects of the Spider's Entangle.

IMMORTALITY

E: Creature regenerates from death in a 100 count without a loss of life, fully healed with all armor and/or weapons replaced. Wounds may not be regenerated independently unless Regeneration is also possessed. Some immortal monsters have special vulnerabilities which may cause them to lose a life, see individual entries for details.

N: If a creature has both Immortality and a form of Regeneration, Immortality will still function even if it was killed by an effect that would bypass its Regeneration, unless it also has a Susceptibility to that particular effect.

IMPALE

Weapons do +1 damage when stabbing.

INCORPOREAL

Creature has immunity to all attacks and harmful effects except while casting magic, using abilities, attacking, or physically interacting with any player or object, and for a three count thereafter. The creature may not attack or engage in combat except with abilities or magic unless otherwise noted. Creatures with Incorporeal treat each other as though they did not possess this trait.

ITEM

The monster has a special item that is important to their existence. The item is not a part of their body. See entry for details about the item and how it affects the game.

LAIR

Monster must declare a Lair to the Reeves before the game. Lairs can be stationary objects (like a tree or large rock) or an area marked off with ribbon. The Lair is assumed to extend 10 feet from any single object, though if ribbon is used its boundaries are absolute. The location of a Lair must always be known to the Reeve, though a slain monster may choose to move the Lair before coming back to life. Lairs may not be destroyed. Certain abilities may only be used in the Lair; see creature description for more information.

LARGE

Creature has immunity to any movement restricting effects of Water terrain and may ignore any restrictions on engaging flying creatures or players in combat.

LEAP

State loudly "Leap" x3. The monster moves directly to a point within 50' and must immediately say "Landing." While leaping, monster is immune to all melee attacks.

LUCK POINT

I: Player says "Luck Point" immediately after being hit by a weapon or spellball.

E: Allows the player to ignore the previous hit as if it did not happen.

N: Does not work against verbal spells, relics or siege weapons.

MAGIC CASTER (PLAYER CLASS)

Monster casts spells as a member of the listed player class, using that particular list of magic. Level and amount of magic points is indicated. Any weapons and shields that are not Natural must be purchased as normal with magic points, and the monster has access only to weapons and shields listed in its weapons and armor entries. If any of these weapons or shields are not normally allowed to the listed class, the cost in magic points is 5. Unless otherwise noted, these creatures must obey all the rules of magic. No additional class abilities are gained, only the use of magic. See individual entries for further details and limitations.

MAGICAL COMPONENT

A part of the creature's body has magical properties and is often coveted by questors and treasure hunters. The body part should be marked with a silver strip and should be easy to recognize by anyone in the game. The body part is considered to have the 'Natural' and 'Magical' trait but is not considered a relic of any kind. It is also not considered a game item. Any other rules that apply to the body part will be found in the description for the creature.

MANY LEGGED (#)

The monster has a number of points of Natural Invulnerability equal to (#) that apply only to Magic Ball and weapon strikes that hit a leg, and to Wounding if against a leg. A hit to either leg will remove a point from the total. Once all of this Invulnerability is lost, the creature is considered Slow and can be wounded normally. This Invulnerability may be restored by Heal (and similar effects) as though each point were a separate Wound.

MASS SHOVE

I: "I shove thee all away" x3.

R: 20 foot radius.

E: All enemies within 20 feet must immediately move back an additional 20 feet away from the caster.

MIGHTY

All melee weapons (even Natural ones) become siege weapons, slaying a target even on hits to the target's equipment, shield or weaponry. Removes one point of Invulnerability or Invulnerable armor per strike. Must be marked with black ribbon.

MOUNT

I: Rider touches creature with Mount and states "Mounted" to activate and "Dismounted" to deactivate.

E: As long as the rider keeps one free hand on the creature with Mount, the rider and mount share all movement based abilities, traits and effects (such as Pass Without Trace, Flight, Teleport, Slow, Shove, and so on). Further, a rider who takes a leg wound does not have to drop to his knees while mounted, though a second leg wound will still kill as normal.

N: In order to activate or cast any effect that requires the person not to move his feet, both the rider and mount must stand still. Mount is activated by rider, not the creature with Mount, although the mount must be willing to accept the rider. The rider may use a wounded arm to maintain contact with a mount, but not one with a weapon or shield.

NATURAL FLIGHT

I: "I take flight" x5 to activate; "Landing" x5 to land.

E: Creature is considered flying as long as it either flaps its arms or chants "flying" every 2 seconds. While in this state:
a. The creature may only engage in and be engaged in melee with Large creatures and other flying creatures.
b. Creature may not use projectiles but may use spells (not magic balls) and verbal abilities (range remains actual range).

c. Creature has immunity to projectiles and magic balls used by creatures that are not Large or flying within 20 feet.

N: A flying creature gains no abilities, immunities, or vulnerabilities not mentioned above nor does flying negate any condition not mentioned above. For example, a flying creature that takes a leg wound must still drop to the knees and a creature may continue to fly as long as it can continue to flap its arms or chant "flying". A flying creature must still stand still to activate magic and abilities, as well as to take off and land.

PLAQUE WEAPON

I: "Plague Weapon"

M: Black Strip tied on weapon

E: People who are wounded by Plagued Weapons die in 100 seconds. A creature may only Plague his weapons.

N: This is a Disease effect. A Cure Ailments cast on player affected by Plague Weapon before the end of the 100 count removes this effect, curing the afflicted and Protection from Ailments blocks the effect.

PLAYER CLASS

The monster has all abilities, traits, and limitations of the listed player class as presented in the Amtgard Rules of Play with further notes and limitations as listed in the monster's individual entry.

POSSESSION

M: Enchantment strip, dead person.

I: "I dominate your will" x3, tie strip on dead person.

E: As per Reanimate, but only one may be active at a time.

L: As per Reanimate and, in addition: Caster must remain within 50 feet of their victim at all times or the Possession is ended. Victims may not attempt to exceed the range on purpose, though they may be lured away by Yield spells or similar magic. Possession is dispelled if the caster is slain.

N: As per Reanimate and, in addition: For the duration of Possession the Monster is assumed to be "inside" the victim. As such, a creature using Possession may still use the full range of its own magics and abilities, but it may not otherwise engage or be engaged in combat, and is immune to all effects aside from spells (Verbal magics) during possession. Killing the victim does not kill the Monster, but does "eject" it within 10 feet of where the victim died.

POTENCY

Death count for poison reduced to 50.

POWER WORD

Incantations for Spells are reduced to a single line or repetition. See monster entries for specifics.

REGENERATION

The creature will heal a wound or point of natural armor (even if the armor is invulnerable or invulnerability) in one location, one at a time, after a 50 count. If killed, the creature will return to life without loss of life in a 50 count and then resume healing of wounds and natural armor. Wounds, damage, and death caused by attacks listed in parentheses or by anything which the creature has a Susceptibility to may not be healed with Regeneration. Wounds and damage that cannot be regenerated will not heal even if the creature is killed and returns to life.

REGENERATION, GREATER

As Regeneration except all required counts are reduced to 25. Additionally, wounds and armor that would normally not be regenerated will begin to heal if the creature is killed and regenerates back to life.

SHEER NUMBERS

The creature's normal death count is reduced to 50. Unless otherwise dictated by the scenario rules or the Reeve, the creature may always count its death and call alive at the spot it died, rather than return to its Nirvana or base. Each individual with sheer numbers usually represents a small horde of similar creatures.

SMALL

Projectiles that only strike limbs are treated as having missed.

SNEAK

I: "Sneak" x5 to activate, chant "Sneak" every 5 seconds to continue, must repeat "Now you see me" x2 to deactivate
E: As per Monk Sanctuary, except Sneaking players may hold Natural weapons in hands. May not deactivate ability within 10 feet of another player.

SPELL MASTERY

Even if bearing enchantments it placed on itself, this monster may continue to cast magic. Any weapons used by the creature cost no magic points. Spell Mastery allows a monster of any type to wear a single enchantment, even if not normally allowed to do so.

STRONG

Melee weapons used by this creature are considered Red or any melee weapons already considered Red do an additional point of damage to armor when used by this monster. Further, because of its immense strength, the creature may move any scenario or quest specific objects designated as too heavy for other creatures by the reeves.

THICK SKINNED

Multi-point weapons do only one point of damage and one point weapons do no damage to the monster's natural armor.

TOUCH OF CORROSION

Any Metal item (includes Improved Shields and weapons not described as Wooden or Rock) that touches or is touched by the creature is destroyed. The creature's touch causes one point of damage to Metal armors (including bonuses from metal scales, rings, or studs) in the hit location touched and counts as a Powerful weapon hit to any Metal creature. Corroding Touch does not negate hits from weapons, even if the weapon is destroyed.

TOUGH

These creatures are innately able to resist most weapons. Strikes from non-magical weapons do not affect them. Tough Monsters are affected normally by weapons wielded by players with Powerful Blows.

TRAMPLE

I: "I charge and trample thee" x2.
R: 20 feet.
E: Target is slain.
N: May be used while moving. This is not a Death effect.

TUNNELING

I: "Tunneling" x5 to activate; "Arriving" x5 once destination is reached.
R: Self Only.
E: As Teleport except may only be used to reach a destination within 100 feet. May delay arrival chant for up to a 100 count after reaching specified destination. May not arrive within 50 feet of a base or Nirvana, and may not carry game items.
N: Reeves may decide that specific scenario conditions or terrain effects may prevent Tunneling through a specified area.

VERMIN HORDE

I: "I call upon an army of (animal listed in description) to devour thee" x3.
R: 20 feet.
E: Target is slain, consumed by a horde of mean little animals.
N: This is not a Death ability or spell. Does one point of damage to invulnerability or invulnerable armor, but bypasses normal armor to slay the victim.

WEBS

M: 10 ft. white cloth.
I: Tie cloth between two points.
E: Any person crossing or touching the strip if treated as though hit with Entangle (web).
N: Webs is canceled if both ends of the cloth are struck with Lightning Bolt, Fireball, or a weapon considered Magical. If Webs is destroyed, anyone currently affected is immediately freed.

VULNERABILITIES

ALLERGY

This creature reacts poorly to certain terrain types, conditions or objects and suffers detrimental effects when exposed to them. See the individual entry for specifics.

ALTERED EFFECT [INITIAL EFFECT (ALTERED EFFECT)]

Describes an effect, attack, ability, or magic that functions in an irregular and generally harmful manner. This vulnerability lists the initial effect, ability, or magic, followed by the Altered Effect. These effects bypass all remaining non-Worn armor (including invulnerabilities), protections, and immunities to affect the target. See entries for complete details.

AVERSION

The creature will not approach within 20 feet of the listed object of its Aversion. Affected creatures will not attack, nor attempt to provoke attack from any such aversion, though they may defend themselves if necessary. See entries for more details.

BENEFICENT

The creature may only attack if provoked. This generally means that the creature may not attack unless attacked first with harmful or detrimental spell ability or effect, attacked with any weapon, or approached to within 10 feet with a drawn weapon or charged magic ball. The creature may not use any lame excuse to join combat. If a particular class, monster, or type of player is listed, the monster is only Beneficent towards that group, and may attack others freely.

BOUND

Creatures may not leave the designated area or radius around a specific object. At the start of each life, the monster may choose a new location within 100 feet of the last location unless otherwise dictated by the scenario. This new location may not be within 100 feet of an opposing base and must still meet the requirements listed in the monster's Bound entry.

REVERSION

The listed effect forces this monster to play out the remainder of its current life as a Peasant. If a player was converted into this monster, he may instead play the remainder of this life as his original class.

SLOW

This creature may not run or jump and may only walk, keeping one foot in contact with the ground at all times.

SUSCEPTIBILITY

Attacks, abilities, and other effects of the listed qualifier will harm or affect the monster despite any immunity. These effects bypass all non-Worn armor (including invulnerabilities). The monster cannot regenerate wounds or from death caused by these effects. These effects will stop Immortality and Fight After Death. Monsters that enter an area to which they have Susceptibility lose all immunities and forms of regeneration, and all invulnerabilities are considered Normal, until they exit the area. Effects that would normally not cause damage or wounds (Control effects, for example) do one point of damage to a location of the monster's choice in addition to other effects; the monster can be wounded and may die from these effects.

WEAK

These sad critters are either so pathetic or so fragile that they die after receiving a wound to any limb.

Monsters

DOR UN AVATHAR 9 - MONSTERS

ANGELIC HERO

Angelic Heroes are the spirits of good knights who have been rewarded by the gods for noble service to the forces of Good. They are sent to aid faithful mortals in dire need, to guard an object of tremendous power or to combat evil too great for mankind to vanquish alone. They generally appear as majestic knights in glowing white armor and garb.

CENTAUR

Centaurs originate in Greek mythology, perhaps as a symbol of contrast between barbaric and civilized nature, and perhaps as an ancient misinterpretation of the first human horse riding cultures. The stories of the archetypical Greek hero Heracles (remembered to today more by his Romanized name, Hercules) included several individual Centaurs, where they continued to be portrayed as a contrasting people –some were boisterous barbarians prone to heavy drinking while others were wise and civilized, thought of as teachers and philosophers.

DEATH KNIGHT

Death Knights are the spirits of fallen heroes, usually paragons of good such as Paladins, who committed an immensely evil act and betrayed their oaths, although occasionally they are the spirits of knight's who were evil in life. They have been returned to this world as undead knights, cursed to forever walk the earth. Though they were once noblemen and as such generally appear in finery, they resemble ghostly skeletons wearing ornate armor, with glowing red eyes staring from deep beneath their helms. Death Knights posses an impressive magical arsenal, but prefer to slay their foes in melee combat. Most retain the sense of honor they had in life, though they are now devoted to the cause of evil.

DRAGON, EASTERN

Legendary creatures typically portrayed as long, scaled, serpentine creatures with four legs. In contrast to Western Dragons, which are considered as evil, Eastern dragons traditionally symbolize potent and auspicious powers, particularly control over water, rainfall, hurricane, and floods. The dragon is also a symbol of power, strength, and good luck.

GARB: Garb or armor with the suggestion of scales.

Something that looks like an Oriental celebration dragon would be excellent.

HOST

Hopelessly wandering the earth, these creatures are the life force of a restless, dead being. Ghosts spend their unlife in a state of continual incorporeality, during which times they cannot affect the world of the living directed. Some Ghosts are occasionally tied to a specific area, but many are free-roaming apparitions. Ghosts come in as many dispositions as mortals, though their personalities tend toward the extremes and have been known to swing wildly from somber and gentle to cruel and spiteful, from weeping melancholy to raucous insanity, at a moment's notice.

HELL-HOUND

The Hounds of Hell are lumbering, toothy canines of demonic visage and ruthless temperament. Only powerful undead lords, demons and Anti-Paladins can command these fell beasts, for it takes an especially diabolic outlook to properly raise any animal that thrives on living flesh and the screams of the tormented dying. Most Hell-hounds serve a dark master of some kind, but tales of free-range packs of these evil monstrosities abound.

LEPUS

A six foot tall humanoid Rabbit. They are semi-barbaric, nomadic forest-dwellers, living in thatch-roofed burrows on the fringes of civilized nations. The Lepus as a race is known to despise the undead, and go out of their way to destroy such creatures of darkness. All Lepus venerate the legendary White Rabbit as a holy creature and will give their lives to protect it from harm.

GARB: Rabbit ears, fluffy tail, loincloth, bone jewelry and such other "savage" clothing.

LICH

Liches are wizards who have used their magical skill to prolong their existence by becoming undead. The wizard creates a phylactery, or magical vessel, to hold their soul. By removing their soul from the equation, the lich can then use simple magics to maintain the 'meat' part of their existence to channel magic. But such choices do not come without sacrifice. As time wears on, the lich becomes dependable on its home to help maintain the undead body. The lich is forced to create special hearth spells to help maintain its flesh until it can learn how to take another body to occupy.

GARB: Yellow Sash. Suggested: a skull mask or other "undead" looking garb and makeup.

MAGIC CASTER (Wizard) (T) Cast Magic at Monster Level
LAIR (T) Man-made structure

IMMORTALITY (T)

ITEM (Phylactery) In order to play this monster, a player must have a physical object at least 3"x3" in size that looks like a container or a jeweled pendant. This item represents where the Lich has hidden their soul. This is the most valuable item to a Lich as it has the ability to end its existence. By having dispel magic cast on it, and then taking at least 10 Points of damage, (meaning ten hits from a single point weapon, five from a two point weapon, etc.) the item is destroyed. If the item is destroyed the Lich loses all remaining lives, and is shattered. The item can be on the Lich or hidden within its lair but it would not be placed somewhere unsafe or easy for just anyone to get.

VULNERABILITIES

ALTERED EFFECT: Mutual Destruction (Banish) Applies only if the lich casts Mutual Destruction, otherwise the lich is Immune. The Spell slays the intended target but the lich is Banished rather than killed.

LYCANTHROPIES

Description: Feared creatures of legend who change form from human to beast, Lycanthropes are known to come in a variety of predatory animal forms. Amongst the most common are wolves, rats, bears, tigers, and boars – though many other, rare species are known to exist. Lycanthropes are generally of evil disposition, enjoying the primal nature of the hunt and pursuing humans as the tastiest meal of all. Many variations are certainly possible, with minor differences based on the type of were-animal portrayed. Regardless of animal form, there are two basic kinds of Lycanthropes:

1. Natural Lycanthropes were born with the ability to shift form. They have full control over their changes, and are cunning to the extreme. In any pack of Lycanthropes, at least one, usually the leader will be natural.
2. Afflicted Lycanthropes are those doomed souls who have been infected with the disease by the bite of another Lycantheope. They have no conscious control over their actions or changes, attacking everything blindly, though they are always nominally controlled by the infecting Lycantheope.

WEREWOLF

This entry also represents the common description for all lycanthropes, regardless of the type of creature they are or whether they are natural or afflicted.

GARB: Lots of fur and fangs, details to the garb to identify the type of creature.

SIDEBAR: UNDER THE FUR

While the werewolf is certainly the most common lycanthrope, other types exist. Some of the common creatures are listed below, along with any listed changes for that entry. Conversion produces more of the same type of lycanthrope. (Wererats create more wererats, for example.) Weretigers can actually be any of the great cats.

MEDUSA

Medusa is the name of one of the Gorgon sisters and the only one that is mortal. An evil combination of woman and snake, she is a creature so horrific in aspect that her mere visage is enough to turn a man to stone. Instead of hair, snakes writhe upon her skull and her lower body is often that of a giant serpent.

GARB: Elegant garb with snakes added to hair. Snake appearance below the waist. Suggested: females.

SCOURGE

Scourge daemons appear as humanoid fighters wearing what seems to be normal chain mail or ring mail armor, but on closer examination their armor is actually made of barbed wire. Scourges are free-willed daemons, in that they are not summoned in the conventional manner, but rather sent to earth on missions given directly from their dire lords instead of mortal masters. Like most such horrors, Scourges thrive on inflicting pain and suffering. Scourges are not likely to lie and deceive their enemies, preferring a more direct and violent approach.

Deadly Slimes are amorphous, amoebic creatures generally considered more terrifying for their lack of form than for any shape they could possibly have. They range in size from only one foot diameter to gigantic proportions, in color from chalk white to jet black and in translucency from opaque to very nearly transparent. Very primitive creatures, deadly slimes have no mind of which to speak. They exist only to reproduce: an exhausting process of cellular fission that requires vast amounts of food.

GARB: Think Jell-O™, and try to make a costume (including weapons) that looks as amorphous as possible. Solid colored garb with matching weapons is a good idea.

URSINID

Ursinid is the term given to huge, bipedal bear-men. Ursunids walk on two legs, averaging over ten feet in height and weighing in excess of a ton of thick fur and dense muscle. Most of these thoughtful and cunning creatures range in coloration from blue-black to rich brown, though a clan of pure white Ursunids is rumored to live in the Frozen North. Ursunids are intelligent and have entered the earliest stages of civilization; they craft tools, practice language, and have learned the finer points of agriculture and food preparation. Ursunids make the strongest honey wine in the known world.
